

A Journey To The Dark Heart Of Nameless Unspeakable Evil

by Jane Bussmann

Contact Julie Nathanson, Executive Vice President, Entertainment
Rogers & Cowan 310-854-8191 direct jnathanson@rogersandcowan.com

“This book will change your life” The Mirror
At last available in the United States.

Renegade British comedy writer Jane Bussmann (South Park) was suicidal in Hollywood hunting interviews with A-list celebrities. So she fled to Uganda, hunting an interview (or better, a date) with charismatic American peacemaker John Prendergast. Instead, she found herself up against war criminal Joseph Kony and his Lord's Resistance Army, and somehow also against the international community's farcical failure to stop him.

How her tale manages to be both gut-wrenching AND hilarious must be read to be believed.

Originally published in the UK, Bussmann's JOURNEY left reviewers nearly, but not entirely, beyond words:

“... cannot be recommended too highly; full of foul-mouthed brio, insightful, scathing, savagely funny and ultimately heartbreaking. Buy, beg, steal or borrow this hilarious, angry book ...” The Times South Africa.

“Marrying vociferous rage with self deprecating humor, a marvelously maverick approach to the investigation of war crimes.” Marie Claire UK

“Manic energy, demented brilliance and a total disregard for her own safety... Bussmann is not making fun of civil war in Africa, but the self-absorbed developed world that turns a blind eye to it.” Canada Globe & Mail

“Who knew war in Uganda could be hilarious as well as moving?” Nicholas Kristof, NY Times

Also touring the U.S., the award-winning show from the book, BUSSMANN'S HOLIDAY – THE WORST DATE EVER

The first XXX-rated show ever performed inside the UK Parliament, it led Prime Minister David Cameron to ask for a briefing on the LRA. Now, fresh from SRO performances from London to Kampala, it's the funniest, most hard-hitting, foul-mouthed political comedy ever to play America.

“ . . .packed with so many absurd one-liners that it's impossible to stop laughing, even as your brain buzzes with fury at the story she relates.”★★★★ – The Guardian